THE EXCITEMENT IN THE HOUSE.

The excitement in the House to-day has been intense. The galleries and corridors, and all approaches to the Hall, were literally jammed with crowds of people of both sexes. Gen. SCHENCK's philippic against his colleague (LONG) was severe and terrible in its denunciation of treason. The debate continues to-night, and no vote will probably be reached before Thursday, as Congress will probably adjourn over Wednesday for the purpose of attending the funeral of JOHN C. RIVES, late an officer of the House.

GEN. CRITTENDEN.

It is understood that the Court of Inquiry into Gen. CRITTENDEN's conduct at the battle of Chickamauga has fully exonerated him from all imputation in that affair. He will soon be assigned to an important command.

CONSOLIDATION OF DEPARTMENTS.

The Department of Monongahela has been merged into that of the Susquehanna, and Gen. BOOTH, who commanded the former, has been assigned to duty under Gen. BUTLER.

THE NATIONAL BANK BILL.

The National Bank Bill, which was defeated last week, is again about to be revived through the Ways and Means Committee. The amendment, which the House insisted on, of allowing States to tax Banks within their limits, has been adopted by the committee at the instance of Secretary CHASE, who is very anxious to perfect, as far as possible, this system of banking. In this shape the bill will undoubtedly be passed.

A NEW PAPER IN WASHINGTON.

The new Fremont paper, called the New Era, will make its appearance to-morrow.

THE TEN-FORTY LOAN.

The sales of ten-forty bonds exceed expectation. The recent demands have reached the full capacity of the department to supply them. The amount of sales reported at the department to-day was $2,000,150. The total amount reported at the department during the last four days is $7,400,000.

C. CHANCELLOR, of the Pawnee, up the St. John's River, Fla. The Hettie Brook is a valuable prize. She is fitted up as a fine passenger boat, has a fine saloon, and has been engaged in transporting stores down the St. John's River.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 11.

Also, a memorial from the Board of Trade of Philadelphia for a suitable pier in the Delaware River at Lewes, Delaware.

THE FLORIDA EXPEDITION.

Mr. WADE, of Ohio, (Union,) from the Committee on the Conduct of the War, made a report, with the evidence in the case, in relation to the late military expedition into Florida, which was ordered to be printed.

He submitted a resolution, also, for printing 5,000 extra copies, which goes to the Committee on Printing.

A REGIMENT OF VETERAN ENGINEERS.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Union,) from the Military Committee, reported, without amendment, the bill to organize a regiment of Veteran Volunteer Engineers.

TRADE WITH THE INDIANS.

On motion of Mr. LANE, of Kansas, (Union,) the Committee on Military Affairs was instructed to inquire into the expediency of abolishing the present system of Indian traders. Which was referred.

THE TRANSFER OF SEAMEN.

Mr. GRIMES, of Iowa, (Union,) rose to a personal explanation, and read from the report of the Naval Committee, of which Mr. HALE is Chairman, an extract, condemning the manner in which the resolutions concerning the transfer of seamen from the army to the navy had been introduced without the acquiescence of the committee. The report says: "When the committee first cast their eyes upon the resolution introduced by Mr. GRIMES to repeal the legislation authorizing the transfers, they saw that it repealed two things instead of the one that was necessary." Mr. GRIMES charged that the committee never saw the report, and that it was alone Mr. HALE's, and that it asserts what is not true in saying that he (GRIMES) desired at once to pass the repeal.

Mr. HALE, of New-Hampshire, (Union,) replied briefly, indicating that, like the sportsman who took their horses out in the morning for training, the gentleman from Iowa (GRIMES) seemed lately to think it necessary to exercise himself a little on him (HALE) before entering upon the race of the day. The gentleman (GRIMES) had practiced on him several times. He hoped, however, the country would survive and the rebellion be put down. Mr. HALE explained that the resolution of repeal of Mr. GRIMES was submitted to the Naval Committee, at which a majority was present, though Mr. GRIMES was not; and they came to the unanimous conclusion, and authorized him (HALE) to draw up a report, and it was in part embodied in some of them afterwards. The report was simply a relation of facts, and those facts were true.

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Senate then, on the motion of Mr. FESSENDEN, proceeded to the consideration of the House Naval Appropriation Bill for the year ending June 30, 1865, as reported from the Finance Committee with amendments, the most important of which strikes out an appropriation of $520,000 for the purpose of building floating dry-docks for monitors at the New-York and Philadelphia Navy-yards.

The amendments were all concurred in with the above exception.

Mr. HALE offered various amendments, proposed by the Naval Committee, which were adopted.

The amendment appropriating $120,000 to purchase land for the extension of the wharf at the Charlestown Navy-yard, was debated at considerable length by Messrs. Hale, Fessenden, Sumner, Conness, Davis and Sherman.

The Yeas and Nays were called on this last amendment, but no quorum voting, on motion, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 11.

MR. HARRIS' REMARKS.

On motion of Mr. HOLMAN, of Indiana, (Dem.,) the journal was corrected so as to make it accord with the fact that Mr. HARRIS, of Maryland, on Saturday used the word subjugation instead of subjection, with the remarks for which he was severely censured.

GEN. GRANT'S REPORT OF THE BATTLE OF CHATTANOOGA.

The Speaker laid before the House Gen. GRANT's report of the battle of Chattanooga, and the reports of the sub-commanders, which were ordered to be printed.

A NAVY-YARD IN PENNSYLVANIA.

DEATH OF JOHN C. RIVES.

By unanimous consent, on motion of Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) it was resolved that when the House shall adjourn on Tuesday, it be to Thursday, in order to enable members to attend the funeral of JOHN C. RIVES, late an officer of the House.

INFORMATION WANTED FROM THE PRESIDENT.

On motion of Mr. FARNSWORTH, of Illinois, (Union,) the Clerk of the House was directed to send to the President a copy of the resolution heretofore passed, requesting the President to give certain information as to the conferring of brevet rank on officers of the volunteer corps, and that his attention be respectfully called to the fact that no answer has yet been given thereto.

NAVAL DEPOT ON THE LAKES.

Mr. BROWN, of Wisconsin, (Dem.,) introduced a joint resolution authorizing the President to appoint a commission of three competent officers of the Engineer Corps, whose duty it shall be to examine the different harbors on the Northwestern Lakes, with the view of selecting an appropriate site for a naval depot, and that said commission report at the earliest time.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

MORE POLITICAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. CRAVENS, of Indiana, (Dem.,) offered the following resolutions, and moved the "previous question" upon them.

The motion for the "previous question" was decided in the negative by 43 against 74.

Debate arising, the resolutions went over.

The resolutions of Mr. CRAVENS are as follows:

Resolved, That in the present condition of the country, when the passions of the people are inflamed, and their prejudices are excited, it is unwise and dangerous to attempt to alter or amend the Constitution of the United States; that ample power is contained within its limits, as it now exists, to protect and defend the national life, and that the exercise of power not warranted by its provisions would be to enter the field of revolution, and dangerous to the liberties of the people, tending to the establishment of a military despotism, and the final overthrow of free government in America.

Resolved, That any attempt by Congress to reduce States to the condition of territories is as odious and as revolutionary in its character and tendency as secession itself.

Resolved, That it is the duty of the Government to listen to and consider any proposition for reconstruction that may be offered by the insurgents, which does not involve the question of separation.

Resolved, That the thanks of the nation are due, and are hereby tendered to the officers, and soldiers, and seamen who have so gallantly borne our flag in this hour of peril to our country.

REORGANIZATION OF THE NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Mr. DAVIS, of Maryland, (Union,) introduced the following bill, which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs:

Be it enacted, &c. First.—That the chiefs of the bureaus of yards and docks, of equipments and recruiting, of navigation, of ordnance, of construction and repairs, and of steam engineering, shall be a Board of Naval Administration, presided over by the Secretary of the Navy or such member as he may designate.

Second.—The board shall deliberate in common and advise the Secretary on any matter submitted by him relating to naval legislation, the construction and equipment of vessels, navy-yards and other naval establishments, and the direction and employment and disposition of the naval force in time of war. All such opinions shall be recorded.

Third.—No vessels of war shall be built or materially altered, nor any guns of new construction ordered or adopted, nor any vessel of war adopted or ordered, nor any permanent structure for the naval service executed, until the plans, estimates and proposals and contracts for the same shall have been submitted to the board, and its opinions and advice thereon communicated in writing to the Secretary; nor shall any patented invention be bought or adopted for the naval service without, first, the opinion of the board having been taken, and all experiments directed to test inventions and naval plans and structures shall be conducted under the direction of the board, or members thereof named by the Secretary, and submitted to the board for its opinion thereon.

Fourth.—All invitations for plans or proposals for any of the works above-mentioned shall be prepared by the board, subject to the approval of the Secretary, and all bids or offers or proposals shall be opened in the presence of the board, and the award made by it, subject to the approval of the Secretary.

Fifth.—The Secretary may add to the board, from time to time, other officers of the navy eligible to the position of Chief of Bureau, not exceeding three at any time, for consultation on any of the above subjects. The board may take the opinion of eminent practical engineers, machinists and architects in their respective branches of art or industry, when, in their opinion, the public service will be promoted by it, and pay them such reasonable compensation as the Secretary may approve.

THE SONG OF THE COPPERHEADS.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the following preamble and resolution, heretofore offered by Mr. FINK, of Ohio, (Union,) namely:

Whereas, In the opinion of this House, the Federal Government is invested by the Constitution of the United States with the necessary power and authority to suppress any resistance to the due execution of the laws, and to employ the army in aid of the civil authority to disperse all armed resistance to the rightful power and jurisdiction of the United States; and,

Whereas, In the judgment of this House the army and navy cannot be rightfully and lawfully used to subjugate and hold as conquered territory any of the States of this Union; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in this national emergency Congress will forget all feeling of mere passion or resentment and will recollect only its duty to the country; that this war should not be urged on our part in any spirit of conquest or subjugation, nor for any purpose of overturning or interfering with the rights or established institutions of the States, but to defend and maintain the supremacy of the Constitution and preserve the Union, with all the dignity, equality and rights of the several States unimpaired, and as soon as these objects are attained the war ought to cease.

Mr. ASHLEY, of Ohio, (Union,) and Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, (Union,) severally moved to lay the resolutions on the table.

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.,) unsuccessfully appealed to the House to take a direct vote on the resolutions.

The motion was then taken on the motion to lay the resolutions on the table.

The motion was carried by yeas 81, nays 64.

EXPULSION OF MR. LONG.

The House resumed the consideration of the following resolution offered by Mr. COLFAX, on Saturday, namely:

Whereas, On the 8th day of April, 1864, when the House of Representatives was in Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, ALEXANDER LONG, a Representative in Congress from the Second District of Ohio, declared himself in favor of recognizing the independent nationality of the so-called Confederacy now in arms against the Union; and whereas, the said so-called Confederacy thus sought to be recognized and established on the ruins of a dissolved or destroyed Union has, as its chief officers, civil and military, those who have added perjury to their treason, and who seek to obtain success for their parricidal efforts by the killing of the loyal soldiers of the nation who are seeking to save it from destruction; and whereas, the oath required of all members, and taken by the said ALEXANDER LONG on the first day of the present Congress, declares that he has voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility to the United States, thereby declaring that such conduct is regarded as inconsistent with membership in the Congress of the United States, therefore,

Resolved, That ALEXANDER LONG, a Representative from the Second District of Ohio, having, on the 8th of April, 1864, declared himself in favor of recognizing the independence and nationality of the so-called Confederacy now in arms against the Union, and thereby giving aid, countenance and encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility to the United States, is hereby expelled.

Mr. BLISS, of Ohio, (Dem.,) expressed the hope that the House would consider the resolution with deliberation, and in cool blood. He thought the mover of the resolution had not sufficiently reflected on the import of the language for which it was proposed to expel his colleague. He did not understand that his colleague had expressed a desire for the success of the Confederate cause over the armies of the United States. He did not understand his colleague to express any want of sympathy for the success of the Union; but he understood him simply to express the opinion he had formed by his own reflections, and that he came to the conclusion it would be better, as a choice of evils, to recognize the Confederacy than to pursue the war for the purpose of conquest and subjugation, with all the attendant evils. He did not concur with his colleague. If he believed his colleague had come into the House and maintained views of the public enemy, thus showing a total absence of good faith to this Government, he would regard him as unworthy a seat in this House, but if his colleague had only erred in judgment, he was disposed to look upon him with that degree of charity which all human beings require should be extended to them. His colleague had uttered no novel opinion when he said he would prefer recognition to subjugation. He did not believe the House, in a moment of passion and paroxysm of anger, should expel a member or should put a tarnish on his character, because he entertained and expressed opinions with the usual freedom of debate, because they did not comport with the better sense of the majority of this House.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) said during his absence from the House on Saturday, an effort was made to compare the position which he assumed at the beginning of the session with that taken by the gentleman from Ohio. He (Mr. STEVENS) had contended that the Confederate States had de facto seceded from the Union, and in doing so had committed a great crime, which should be punished not only by the extreme means allowable by war, but that they outlawed themselves from all protection under the Constitution and laws; that they had abrogated the laws and the Constitution, and the Union so far as they were concerned, and that we ought to confiscate all their property, real and personal, and treat them as a foreign enemy; and, further, that they could claim no right different from a foreign enemy. While he said they had set up a de facto government, he at the same time contended that they committed the crime of secession and stood in that attitude alone from the protection of the Constitution. But it was said on the other side, that having become a seceded power, they should be permitted to remain so, without punishment; that the Government should extend the right hand of fellowship, and withdraw its armies, and allow them to maintain that attitude.

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.,) said that he had given the very words of the gentleman from Pennsylvania, (STEVENS,) who now charged him with perverting his language. (Cries of "Order," "Order," "Order.") (Mr. STEVENS said he began his remarks calmly, and would not indulge in them. He repeated that he had assumed that, as belligerents, for their crimes and treason, they deserved to be punished by the sword and violence, as traitors should be. But the admission of the gentleman from Ohio, (LONG,) that being a de facto government, they ought to be permitted quietly to cut themselves from this Government, he (STEVENS) protested against being linked with such an infamous purpose. The gentleman (COX) had endeavored to assimilate his views with those who would let the seceded States depart in peace, without punishment.

Mr. COX said that his colleague (LONG) in his speech, now declared to be so obnoxious, based his arguments on the doctrines of the gentleman from Pennsylvania, (STEVENS,) in which the latter declared "the Southern States were independent now for the purposes of war and subjugation."

Mr. STEVENS—I understand now how perfectly easy it is for the devil to quote Scripture and pervert it. (Laughter and applause.) No man would do it who was not a fool or a knave, or both. (Laughter.)

Mr. FERNANDO WOOD, of New-York, (Dem.,) then proceeded to address the House. He said: Doubtless the country had viewed with profound regret the proceedings of this House on Saturday. It was humiliating to him, as a member of an American Congress, to witness this continued trifling from day to day, when the country was bleeding to death for want of the remedies which Congress alone could give. Our arms were apparently paralyzed in face of the enemy. Our treasury was exhausted, and its credit was less than one-third of the expenditures. The laboring classes were borne down by oppressive taxation and inadequate compensation. Our tables here groan under a load of bills of various character, awaiting legislative action. And what are we doing? We are here opening court for the trial and punishment of members for the exercise of rights of which God alone can deprive them. It is a disgrace to the age we live in, and should, as it no doubt will, meet the reprobation of an indignant people. Mr. WOOD then spoke of the position of the Speaker of the House (COLFAX) as unduly partisan, unprecedented, saying that gentleman (COLFAX) had descended from the chair, with all its exalted surroundings, to enter the gladiatorial arena of partizan combatants. The gentleman from Ohio (LONG) is arraigned for what? For the honest avowal of the opinions he entertained, and for which he was responsible to no other power or authority than those he represented in this House—his constituents. He (LONG) had declared that in a certain contingency, which he stated, he would prefer recognition as between annihilation and recognition. He (LONG) preferred the latter. Is it criminal so to declare? None of us are in favor of taking human life, and yet all of us are prepared to do so in self-defence. Which such an alternative is presented either of us would kill. This is an analagous case. The gentleman from Ohio (LONG) declared substantially that he was in favor of recognition rather than to see every woman and child of the Southern States put to the sword. He (WOOD) thought that every humane and Christian man in the land would indorse this sentiment thus presented; but the gentleman (LONG) was arraigned because it was said that his speech gives "aid and comfort to the rebels." If this were so the other side of the House have no right to complain. The Republican party having been feeding the flame of the rebellion ever since its existence. That party was conceived and brought forth in disunion, and could not live for forty-eight hours as a political organization, but for this fell and wicked spirit. That English vagabond (THOMPSON) was sent to this country by the British Government thirty years ago to sow the seeds of dissolution, and he now comes back as the guest of his friends and fellow-disunionists to witness the bloody harvest. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS and JOSHUA R. GIDDINGS presented petitions in the year 1842 in favor of a dissolution of the Union. Senator HALE, of New-Hampshire, presented Memorials to the Senate in favor of disunion, and Mr. SEWARD and Mr. CHASE voted for their reception. The present Secretary of the Treasury (Mr. CHASE) advocated a recognition of the Southern Confederacy in the Cabinet, while the Confederates had only a Provisional Confederacy at Montgomery. Mr. SUMNER, and indeed the leaders the party in power were, and still are, in favor of "eternal separation." How dare the leaders of the Republican party in this House then arraign a member for doing that which they have been doing all their political lives.

Mr. ASHLEY, of Ohio, (Union,) asked whether Mr. CHASE had, in any official act, expressed himself in favor of recognizing the Southern Confederacy?

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.,) replied to this by saying, on the 19th of April, 1861, the Mayor of Baltimore, in a speech, said that Secretary CHASE told him so. (Exclamations on the Republican side of "Oh, oh," and laughter.)

Mr. ASHLEY—I deny it for Secretary CHASE.

Mr. COX—You should not deny anything without knowing what it is. The Mayor represented Mr. CHASE as saying he opposed the right of secession; but when the South became an independent and powerful State out of the Union, he was for telling them to go in peace.

Mr. ASHLEY—I deny it now.

Mr. COX—What authority have you?

Mr. ASHLEY answered—His knowledge of the character of the man, and an acquaintance with his views.

Mr. COX—If you judge by the character of the man, I say you are not authorized to deny for anybody.

FERNANDO WOOD resumed, saying that the Secretary of the Treasury would not deny the fact, and he was surprised that any denial of it would be made here. He pursued his remarks at some length, and caused to be read from a campaign document, views attributed to leading Republicans in favor of a dissolution of the Union.

Mr. STANTON's name being mentioned in connection with others, that gentleman denied the statement attributed to him as false, come from what quarter it might.

Mr. WOOD said he was not in favor of recognition, but advocated the sending of Commissioners to Richmond, believing this would open the way to peace on the basis of the old Union. War, he contended, cannot restore the Union. The Democratic party cannot be a war party. There could not be such a thing as War Democrats, because war tended to the destruction of the Union and the Constitution. If the war was to be continued, let it be carried on by the Republican party.

Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, (Union,) remarked that the gentleman from New-York said he was no disunionist, and dissented from the views of Mr. HARRIS, while at the same time he dissented from the views of the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LONG.) The gentleman said he would send Commissioners to Richmond, and ask to treat for peace. How many others agreed with the gentleman he did not know; but he knew that the rebels had treated all such propositions with scorn. They must not come in that shape between the wind and their nobility. Those who advocate peace would crawl on their bellies and lick the feet of the rebels to see whether they would not make terms. He did not belong to any such school as that. He was for having no conference with rebels in arms. He was in favor of no treaty. He believed the only safety of the country was to fight out the war to the end, and in putting down the rebellion so effectually that it will never again raise its hydra head. In reviewing Mr. LONG's speech, Mr. SCHENCK denied the truth of the remarks that hostilities did not commence until after the inauguration of President LINCOLN. The Star of the West was fired on during January, while BUCHANAN was President. It was the most unwarranted and false statement ever presented to the public ear. Mr. SCHENCK then alluded to the conduct of FERNANDO WOOD in relation to the arms intended for Georgia, and his correspondence with ROBERT TOOMBS, upon the subject, Georgia having solemnly declared for secession six days before. But the gentleman was not a War Democrat. Even soldiers wearing the United States uniform were murdered in the streets of New-York during the riots. Perhaps the gentleman was not seen in the streets of the public enemy, but showed no sympathy or an absence of good faith to this Government, he would regard him as unworthy a seat in this House, but if his colleague had only erred in judgment, he was disposed to look upon him with that degree of charity which all human beings require should be extended to them. His colleague had uttered no novel opinion when he said he would prefer recognition to subjugation. He did not believe the House, in a moment of passion and paroxysm of anger, should expel a member or should put a tarnish on his character, because he entertained and expressed opinions with the usual freedom of debate, because they did not comport with the better sense of the majority of this House.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) said during his absence from the House on Saturday, an effort was made to compare the position which he assumed at the beginning of the session with that taken by the gentleman from Ohio. He (Mr. STEVENS) had contended that the Confederate States had de facto seceded from the Union, and in doing so had committed a great crime, which should be punished not only by the extreme means allowable by war, but that they outlawed themselves from all protection under the Constitution and laws; that they had abrogated the laws and the Constitution, and the Union so far as they were concerned, and that we ought to confiscate all their property, real and personal, and treat them as a foreign enemy; and, further, that they could claim no right different from a foreign enemy. That English vagabond (THOMPSON) was sent to this country by the British Government thirty years ago to sow the seeds of dissolution, and he now comes back as the guest of his friends and fellow-disunionists to witness the bloody harvest. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS and JOSHUA R. GIDDINGS presented petitions in the year 1842 in favor of a dissolution of the Union. Senator HALE, of New-Hampshire, presented Memorials to the Senate in favor of disunion, and Mr. SEWARD and Mr. CHASE voted for their reception. The present Secretary of the Treasury (Mr. CHASE) advocated a recognition of the Southern Confederacy in the Cabinet, while the Confederates had only a Provisional Confederacy at Montgomery. Mr. SUMNER, and indeed the leaders the party in power were, and still are, in favor of "eternal separation." How dare the leaders of the Republican party in this House then arraign a member for doing that which they have been doing all their political lives.

Mr. ASHLEY, of Ohio, (Union,) asked whether Mr. CHASE had, in any official act, expressed himself in favor of recognizing the Southern Confederacy?

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.,) replied to this by saying, on the 19th of April, 1861, the Mayor of Baltimore, in a speech, said that Secretary CHASE told him so. (Exclamations on the Republican side of "Oh, oh," and laughter.)

Mr. ASHLEY—I deny it for Secretary CHASE.

Mr. COX—You should not deny anything without knowing what it is. The Mayor represented Mr. CHASE as saying he opposed the right of secession; but when the South became an independent and powerful State out of the Union, he was for telling them to go in peace.

Mr. ASHLEY—I deny it now.

Mr. COX—What authority have you?

Mr. ASHLEY answered—His knowledge of the character of the man, and an acquaintance with his views.

Mr. COX—If you judge by the character of the man, I say you are not authorized to deny for anybody.

FERNANDO WOOD resumed, saying that the Secretary of the Treasury would not deny the fact, and he was surprised that any denial of it would be made here. He pursued his remarks at some length, and caused to be read from a campaign document, views attributed to leading Republicans in favor of a dissolution of the Union.

Mr. STANTON's name being mentioned in connection with others, that gentleman denied the statement attributed to him as false, come from what quarter it might.

Mr. WOOD said he was not in favor of recognition, but advocated the sending of Commissioners to Richmond, believing this would open the way to peace on the basis of the old Union. War, he contended, cannot restore the Union. The Democratic party cannot be a war party. There could not be such a thing as War Democrats, because war tended to the destruction of the Union and the Constitution. If the war was to be continued, let it be carried on by the Republican party.

Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, (Union,) remarked that the gentleman from New-York said he was no disunionist, and dissented from the views of Mr. HARRIS, while at the same time he dissented from the views of the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. LONG.) The gentleman said he would send Commissioners to Richmond, and ask to treat for peace. How many others agreed with the gentleman he did not know; but he knew that the rebels had treated all such propositions with scorn. They must not come in that shape between the wind and their nobility. Those who advocate peace would crawl on their bellies and lick the feet of the rebels to see whether they would not make terms. He did not belong to any such school as that. He was for having no conference with rebels in arms. He was in favor of no treaty. He believed the only safety of the country was to fight out the war to the end, and in putting down the rebellion so effectually that it will never again raise its hydra head. In reviewing Mr. LONG's speech, Mr. SCHENCK denied the truth of the remarks that hostilities did not commence until after the inauguration of President LINCOLN. The Star of the West was fired on during January, while BUCHANAN was President. It was the most unwarranted and false statement ever presented to the public ear. Mr. SCHENCK then alluded to the conduct of FERNANDO WOOD in relation to the arms intended for Georgia, and his correspondence with ROBERT TOOMBS, upon the subject, Georgia having solemnly declared for secession six days before. But the gentleman was not a War Democrat. Even soldiers wearing the United States uniform were murdered in the streets of New-York during the riots. Perhaps the gentleman was not seen in the streets of the public enemy, but showed no sympathy or an absence of good faith to this Government, he would regard him as unworthy a seat in this House, but if his colleague had only erred in judgment, he was disposed to look upon him with that degree of charity which all human beings require should be extended to them. His colleague had uttered no novel opinion when he said he would prefer recognition to subjugation. He did not believe the House, in a moment of passion and paroxysm of anger, should expel a member or should put a tarnish on his character, because he entertained and expressed opinions with the usual freedom of debate, because they did not comport with the better sense of the majority of this House.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) said during his absence from the House on Saturday, an effort was made to compare the position which he assumed at the beginning of the session with that taken by the gentleman from Ohio. He (Mr. STEVENS) had contended that the Confederate States had de facto seceded from the Union, and in doing so had committed a great crime, which should be punished not only by the extreme means allowable by war, but that they outlawed themselves from all protection under the Constitution and laws; that they had abrogated the laws and the Constitution, and the Union so far as they were concerned, and that we ought to confiscate all their property, real and personal, and treat them as a foreign enemy; and, further, that they could claim no right different from a foreign enemy. While he said they had set up a de facto government, he at the same time contended that they committed the crime of secession and stood in that attitude alone from the protection of the Constitution. But it was said on the other side, that having become a seceded power, they should be permitted to remain so, without punishment; that the Government should extend the right hand of fellowship, and withdraw its armies, and allow them to maintain that attitude.

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.,) said that he had given the very words of the gentleman from Pennsylvania, (STEVENS,) who now charged him with perverting his language. (Cries of "Order," "Order," "Order.") (Mr. STEVENS said he began his remarks calmly, and would not indulge in them. He repeated that he had assumed that, as belligerents, for their crimes and treason, they deserved to be punished by the sword and violence, as traitors should be. But the admission of the gentleman from Ohio, (LONG,) that being a de facto government, they ought to be permitted quietly to cut themselves from this Government, he (STEVENS) protested against being linked with such an infamous purpose. The gentleman (COX) had endeavored to assimilate his views with those who would let the seceded States depart in peace, without punishment.

Mr. COX said that his colleague (LONG) in his speech, now declared to be so obnoxious, based his arguments on the doctrines of the gentleman from Pennsylvania, (STEVENS,) in which the latter declared "the Southern States were independent now for the purposes of war and subjugation."

Mr. STEVENS—I understand now how perfectly easy it is for the devil to quote Scripture and pervert it. (Laughter and applause.) No man would do it who was not a fool or a knave, or both. (Laughter.)

Mr. FERNANDO WOOD, of New-York, (Dem.,) then proceeded to address the House. He said: Doubtless the country had viewed with profound regret the proceedings of this House on Saturday. It was humiliating to him, as a member of an American Congress, to witness this continued trifling from day to day, when the country was bleeding to death for want of the remedies which Congress alone could give. Our arms were apparently paralyzed in face of the enemy. Our treasury was exhausted, and its credit was less than one-third of the expenditures. The laboring classes were borne down by oppressive taxation and inadequate compensation. Our tables here groan under a load of bills of various character, awaiting legislative action. And what are we doing? We are here opening court for the trial and punishment of members for the exercise of rights of which God alone can deprive them. It is a disgrace to the age we live in, and should, as it no doubt will, meet the reprobation of an indignant people. Mr. WOOD then spoke of the position of the Speaker of the House (COLFAX) as unduly partisan, unprecedented, saying that gentleman (COLFAX) had descended from the chair, with all its exalted surroundings, to enter the gladiatorial arena of partizan combatants. The gentleman from Ohio (LONG) is arraigned for what? For the honest avowal of the opinions he entertained, and for which he was responsible to no other power or authority than those he represented in this House—his constituents. He (LONG) had declared that in a certain contingency, which he stated, he would prefer recognition as between annihilation and recognition. He (LONG) preferred the latter. Is it criminal so to declare? None of us are in favor of taking human life, and yet all of us are prepared to do so in self-defence. Which such an alternative is presented either of us would kill. This is an analagous case. The gentleman from Ohio (LONG) declared substantially that he was in favor of recognition rather than to see every woman and child of the Southern States put to the sword. He (WOOD) thought that every humane and Christian man in the land would indorse this sentiment thus presented; but the gentleman (LONG) was arraigned because it was said that his speech gives "

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

A letter from the Army of the Potomac says: "Major-Gen. MEADE's headquarters is no longer headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, at least so far as news of the army is concerned. The officers from there of every grade are to be seen daily on their pilgrimage to Culpeper, to learn what is about to transpire."

A dispatch from Louisa, Ky., says that on the 8th inst., Capt. PATTISON, with 15 men of the Fourth Kentucky, surprised 80 rebels at Quicksand Creek, and killed 10 and wounded 11, and captured all their arms, horses and camp equipage.

The Forty-sixth regiment, New-York State Volunteers, under command of Col. TRAVERSE, arrived in Albany yesterday, direct from Knoxville, and immediately proceeded to the barracks. This regiment is composed entirely of Germans, and was gathered together in this City. It is attached to the Ninth Army Corps, and now numbers two hundred and fifty-five men, of whom two hundred and twenty-five have reënlisted.

The Department of Monongahela, commanded by Maj.-Gen. BROOKS, has been merged into the Department of the Susquehannah, commanded by Maj.-Gen. COOKE, and Gen. BROOKS is ordered to report to Maj.-Gen. BUTLER.

The storm of Saturday did much damage to the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, carrying away bridges and trestle-work, and so interrupting communication with the army for two days.

Admiral FARRAGUT reports the capture, on the 12th of March, of the schooner Marion by the steamer Arcostook, of Rio Brazos, bound to Havana, from Tampico, with an assorted cargo. The Marion is of little value.

CONGRESS

In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. WADE, from the Committee on the Conduct of the War, made a report, with evidence in the case, in relation to the late military expedition into Florida, which was ordered to be printed. He submitted a resolution, also, for printing 5,000 extra copies. The Senate considered the Naval Appropriation Bill, with the amendments as reported from the Finance Committee, the most important of which strikes out an appropriation of $520,000 for the purpose of building floating dry-docks for monitors at the New-York and Philadelphia Navy-yards. The amendments were all concurred in with the above exception.

In the House, yesterday, the Speaker laid before the House Gen. GRANT's report of the battle of Chattanooga, and the report of the sub-commanders, which were ordered to be printed. Mr. BROWN introduced the National Bank or Currency Bill, the consideration of which was postponed till Saturday. The House voted that when it adjourns on Tuesday, it be until Thursday, to enable members to attend the funeral of the late JOHN C. RIVES. Mr. DAVIS, of Maryland, introduced a bill for the establishment of a Board of Naval Administration in connection with the Navy Department, to be composed of the several chiefs of bureaus, and to be presided over by the Secretary of the Navy, or such person as he shall select, and before which board all questions of the construction, alteration, equipment or armament of any vessel of war shall be considered; also, all contracts, all guns, new inventions and experiments shall be adjudicated on by this board. A number of proxy political resolutions were offered by Opposition members, which were either rejected or laid on the table. The House then took up the resolution on the expulsion of Mr. LONG, which was discussed at great length by Messrs. COLFAX, SCHENCK, COX, BENJAMIN WOOD, VOORHEES, and others, when, at half-past five, a recess was taken until seven, when the discussion was resumed, and continued until half-past eleven, and the House adjourned without a vote.

GENERAL NEWS.

Both Boards of the Common Council met yesterday. Both boards adopted an ordinance providing that all disputed questions of elections in fire companies shall be referred to the Commissioners of the Fire Department, who shall examine and decide them, and whose decision shall be final. The Board of Aldermen adopted the resolution to present a stand of colors to the Eighty-fourth Regiment N. Y. N. G. The Council Board laid it over under the rule. A resolution previously adopted by the Aldermen, to widen the avenue across the Park, in front of the City Hall, twenty-five feet, for the benefit of military parades and reviews, the Councilmen discussed as to its wording, which appeared to be peculiar and somewhat indefinite, and finally referred it to the Committee on National Affairs. The Mayor sent a veto message to the Council on bills of CHAMBERS & BUTTS, for carriage hire, his objection being that they were not verified by affidavit. Both boards adjourned to 2 o'clock P. M. next Monday.

Major-General DIX has notified Comptroller BROWN that he withdraws all authorization on his part of Corporation papers selected by authority of the second section of the City Tax Law of 1863, and that he will not countersign warrants for the bills of such papers for advertisements inserted later than the 9th inst., and says that he does not authorize further bills for City or County advertising until the Comptroller and himself shall jointly select Corporation papers as provided for in that section of law.

The examination of JOHN W. HUNTER, in relation to the alleged Counterfeit Check forgeries, was continued yesterday before Commissioner WEBB. The evidence of JOHN J. CLINE was concluded. The case will be resumed to-day at 2 o'clock.

The stamp put upon the deed conveying land to the "Dry & Brunswick Gold Company," a corporation of Connecticut capitalists, cost one thousand dollars, the consideration money being three million dollars.

The Pennsylvania State Senate on April 6, by a vote of nineteen to eight, passed to a third reading the resolution removing the Capital to Philadelphia.

The live stock markets are all excited this week. A short supply was reported one week ago, and the receipts are still light. About 3,200 cattle were on sale at ALLERTON'S yesterday—besides some 150 head were sold there Friday and Saturday. Prices are now the highest ever obtained in this City, good fat bullocks commanding 16½c.@17c. ℔ lb. for the meat, while scarcely anything goes for less than 14c. Sheep are 1c. higher, and are hard to get at any price.

Breadstuffs were in active demand yesterday, mainly on speculation, at a further material rise in prices of the principal kinds. Provisions were also active, and hog products higher. Whisky and Tallow were freely purchased and were dearer. Groceries were quiet. Cotton was in fair request and buoyant. Freights were extremely quiet and depressed.

The Stock Market left off irregular yesterday on the Railways, and dull on the Mining Stocks. Governments were firm. Exchange on London in demand at an advance of 1@1½ per cent., which kept Gold firm in the open market.

Freedom of Debate in Congress.

The debate in the House of Representatives on the expulsion of Mr. LONG, of Ohio, was continued, yesterday, and occupied the greater part of the day and the evening till midnight. The debate was earnest, somewhat stormy, and occasionally foul, and it was participated in by a large number of members.

We have protested against the attempt to expel Representative LONG on the ground of expediency. We now wish to say a few words in respect to the right of the matter. The Constitution takes care to secure the utmost freedom of debate in Congress by making special provision that "for any speech or debate in either House, members shall not be questioned in any other place."

What could have been the object of this unlimited immunity, but the recognized necessity that every representative should be in a position to do completest justice to his own sentiments and those of his constituents? That is a principle which lies at the very foundation of every representative Government. But why is it not as much a violation of this principle for men in the Capitol to deter a Representative from speaking his sentiments, as for men outside the Capitol? It is the intimidation that is the evil, and it don't matter a particle whence the intimidation proceeds. For any power in Congress or out of Congress to exercise it, is to violate one of the most sacred principles of the Constitution.

Mr. LONG has denied the right of coercion. Why should he be expelled for that? No Congress ever sat in Washington in which the same denial has not been made. The denial has been met a thousand times by argument, by ridicule and by denunciation, but no man before ever dreamed of meeting it by a resolution of expulsion. Mr. LONG also affirmed that, in his belief, it was impossible to subdue the rebellion. If he honestly believes that, he has not only the right, but it is his duty to say it. It is the duty of every honest legislator, when great public concerns are at stake, to declare his honest convictions. It is none the less but all the more, his duty to do this, if these convictions are opposed to the dominant sentiment. It is the weakest side that has the strongest need of argument; for it is their only power. Mr. LONG's only responsibility for his arguments is to his constituents. We have no business to assume that in this speech he did not utter the sentiments of his constituents. If he did we are sorry for them. Their views of the injustice and the inexpediency of this war are as wide as the poles from ours. But that gives us in New-York no right to disfranchise them in Ohio; and not a whit better right has our Representative in Congress to silence, or aid in silencing, their Representative in Congress.

The pretence that Mr. LONG uttered treasonable language is preposterous. It is not treasonable to advocate, or question, or gainsay any construction of the Constitution. It is not treasonable to look at the gigantic proportions of the rebellion and draw the conclusion that it cannot be put down. Were it so, there are not thirty men in that Congress who have not at times in the course of this struggle been very strongly tempted to turn traitors. Never has the faith of this journal in the final triumph of the Government wavered for a single instant, as every daily reader of it can testify; but Heaven save us from the arrogance of denouncing and prescribing as traitorous every press which has at times shown apprehension or despondency. Treason is not a thing which lodges in the nerves; it has its seat in the heart. And until we see the evidence of it there, we call no man traitor.

Freedom of debate in Congress, we say, cannot be constitutionally restricted. We say debate, for that is the constitutional word. There is an intemperance of speech which is not debate—which may be intolerably indecent or insulting. From all language of that kind every deliberative body has a right to protect itself. In the speech of Mr. LONG there was no such language. For a Congressional speech, it was more than ordinarily calm and dignified, though abounding in error. The brief harangue of Mr. HANAN, on the other hand, was couched in language of most outrageous insult to every loyal sentiment of the House. He justly drew upon himself the severest censure of that body; and if he had an atom of manhood in his composition, he would no longer sit where he had been thus branded. There is no sound principle of free debate that would protect or palliate an offence like his.

It has been asked why VALLANDIGHAM was punished, if LONG should escape. VALLANDIGHAM was never punished in the House, though he again and again expressed the identical sentiments now put forth by LONG. Nor was he punished for the utterance out of Congress of any abstract opinions. What he incurred his penalty for was the instigating of resistance to a certain military order of Gen. BURNSIDE, and for directly undertaking to discourage enlistments. His offence was a military one, not a civil one. He was tried and found guilty by a military court, and was sentenced by military authority, with the exercise of which authority the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that it has no right to interfere. This military punishment of VALLANDIGHAM has no more connection with the legislative silencing of Representative LONG, than it has with the ecclesiastical silencing of Bishop CORNEO. It is absurd to confound things so essentially distinct, or make one a reason for the other.

The Czar's Proclamation of Emancipation in Poland—The Epoch of Liberty.

The middle of this month will witness in Europe another of those grand events which, like the President's Proclamation of Emancipation in America, are to make these years forever illustrious in history. On the 15th of April, by a recent ukase of the CZAR, every serf in Russian Poland is to be at once and forever set free from all bondage. He is to own the cottage and the plot of ground which he has been occupying, his time and labor are to be his own, and he is liberated from all claims to service and obligations of labor which his master may have possessed over him. For this great emancipation, he has only to pay to the Government a tax, by which "loyal masters" are to be remunerated. More than this, the Polish serf is to become at once a self-governing citizen. He is to elect his own village officials, his mayor, and sheriff, and justice of the peace—a privilege which Prussia has never yet granted to the Prussian Poles.

Thus, at a single stroke, millions of human beings are set free from an ancient oppression, and endowed with new privilege and rights. Like the Proclamation here, it is of course the death-blow of the revolution, at which it is aimed. Poland, like the Southern States of America, never had a middle class. Society consisted of a brave and barbaric aristocracy and the degraded serfs. The mercantile class was made up almost entirely of foreigners. The heroic valor and incredible sufferings of this aristocracy, with their unwearying and never-vanquished struggles for nationality, have endeared them to the sympathies of humane and progressive men the world over, while the severities of the Russians have intensified this feeling, until "sympathy for Poland" has become almost a war-cry of the Liberals in every country.

But, unfortunately, the Polish Revolution never based itself, like the Hungarian, on the emancipation and elevation of the serfs. It had no popular leader or reformer as KOSSUTH, to bring it into sympathy with the great movements of the age. It was the revolution of a class—a heroic and valiant class, it is true, whose sufferings claim the respect of the world—but who, like the corresponding class of slaveholders, in a far different rebellion here, must go down when the masses they have oppressed or neglected are roused up against them.

The Emperor, in this great and wise measure, has struck the mortal blow to the Polish Revolution. He has met revolution by a counter-revolution. He has liberated Poland. He has withdrawn the Polish struggle from the field of European sympathies. The millions who, on the 15th of April, shall stand up freemen, are so many supporters of the Russian Government, and pledges of its continuance in Poland. The Polish aristocracy are attacked in the house of their friends.

The mind cannot easily grasp the extent and results of such great measures of human elevation, as this act of Polish Emancipation. A whole people of serfs, living in ignorance and dependence on half barbaric masters, suddenly made free in person and labor, and gifted with communal self-government!

Act by act, the great drama opens itself which is to distinguish this age beyond all others—the grand movement for the elevation of the lowest classes, and for the breaking up of all forms of human bondage. On this side of the ocean, millions of slaves drop their fetters, and through seas of blood a nation moves steadily on to the establishment of universal freedom and justice on the new continent. On the other, millions of serfs in Russia are freed by a peaceful decree, and now another vast population of bondsmen are liberated by the sharper necessities of war.

We who are actors in this cannot appreciate the grandeur of the age. Our children's children, for hundreds of years, will look to it as we regard now the era of the Reformation or of the first French Revolution—as one of those rare periods when the human race made suddenly some of its greatest steps of progress, when the abuses of centuries were abolished at a stroke, and the wrongs which had weighed longest on humanity were overthrown in but a few years.

THE RED RIVER VERSUS THE RAPIDAN—OUR GREAT ARMY ON THE RED.—Not a few men and women may be supposed to be cudgeling their brains about this time, to see if they cannot strike out some light concerning the meaning of the extensive military manœuvres going on in Western Louisiana. Beside the heavy force, military and naval, which Gen. SMITH took down the Mississippi and up the Red River, capturing Fort De Russey and pushing on to Natchitoches, we have had news that Gen. BANKS, with a very large cavalry force and a small infantry accompaniment, had passed up once more through the deserted Opelousas country, and was trying to effect a junction with SMITH, when he was attacked by the rebels on Cane River. In addition to these two columns on the Red River, or trying to get there, we are informed by our correspondent with the Army of the Frontier, that eight regiments and a battery, under Gen. THAYER, left Fort Smith, Arkansas, on the 21st ult., destined also for the Red River; and this body was to be joined in Southern Arkansas by a fourth army, from Little Rock, under Gen. STEELE, who was also bound for Red River. The entire force of these four armies, when combined, will, we understand, number about forty thousand men.

This is an enormous army to operate with on the Red River, and the country will look with intense interest for its achievements. The rebels thereabouts have, of course, no force to cope or to compare with this. What force they have ought to be devoured very quickly; and then what will our army of 40,000 men do? They cannot march across the vast spaces of Texas, and they certainly cannot be retained in Western Louisiana, for Gen. BANKS' various fruitless marchings and countermarchings through that fatal region have already cost us enough and enormously in blood and treasure. It is not worth while to divide such a splendid army up into mere post-holders and guerrilla hunters, when troops are so imperatively demanded for great operations in front of the National Capital.

It was given out some time since that Gen. GRANT would speedily withdraw all white troops from the Department of the Gulf, except such as were needed to hold New-Orleans, and it is possible that this concentration on the Red River of all the Trans-Mississippi forces may be followed by that step. Forty thousand additional men in Virginia might turn the tide of war this Summer, and crush forever the head of the Jeff. Davis Confederacy. It would be a fearful thing were we defeated in front of Richmond.

The Fair and Those Interested in It.

The success of the Fair as a purely fiscal auxiliary of the Sanitary Commission, is fully established. It does not need a statement in detail from the Treasurer to prove that the contributions in money and in goods exceed the most sanguine hopes of its promoters. It is not premature, then, to ask, as we do with the utmost deference to the management, whether there is any element yet wanting to what may be called a perfect success? We hear, for instance, with a mixed feeling of pleasure and disappointment that, with admission fees exceeding in the aggregate $2 for a single visit to the different departments of the fair, the building is yet crowded to excess on each successive day. From this simple fact we gather a sure intimation that the visitors, thus far, have been mainly, almost exclusively we may say, the well-to-do people of the City, or, peradventure, still better dressed folks from the surrounding country.

We know that the poor, the honest and industrious poor, have not been there, because they cannot indulge even in the luxury of benevolence at such a cost in times like these. But is it well that this practical exclusion of such a class should prevail? Or if the necessity imposed by limited accommodation required that it should prevail for a time, is it well that it should continue longer? Waving the point of putting a tax upon overcrowding during the first days of the fair, we seek for some valid reason for prolonging the practically exclusive system.

We can see (by anticipation) the managers, in answer to this appeal, point with most sagacious nods to their plethoric exchequer. And in these nods there is doubtless much practical meaning. But may we claim leave to remind them that "the life is more than meat?" that there is more to be done by means of these charitable fairs than merely accumulate funds in the hands of the Sanitary Commission. That is, unquestionably, the main and primary object. We venture, however, to think that it is almost if not quite as important an object to keep alive the flame of popular sympathy with the material and moral well-being of the National army. In the matter of military expenditure, the aggregate contributions of the commission, liberal as they have been, count but a mere bagatelle. In the matter of stirring the public heart to a feeling of close interest in the soldier in the field, the commission has rendered services which no Government, however amply provided with means, could purchase. And herein has lain the pith of its endeavors as a grand auxiliary of the War Department. It has brought home to men's doors a sense of the stern realities of the battle-field, which could, otherwise, only be gained by personal inspection; and it has made it thoroughly apparent in every part of these States, from California to Maine, that the Union soldier is the object of the utmost possible care even in the extremity of battle. A ministrant to the sick and wounded soldier, the commission has thus, also, done invaluable incidental service as an agent for the recruitment of the army.

We are unwilling to rest the question of admission to the fair even here. There is, besides, a fiscal argument, we hold, for reasonable fees. How many of the poorer classes of the City have friends and relatives in the army, for whom the visitor would gladly purchase a souvenir of the fair, however small in intrinsic value. It is the object of the managers, we take it, to find a market for all their wares—not merely for those luxuries in the shape of articles of vertu which the wealthier visitors effect. And in this view a more liberal policy at the ticket-office would be financially sound. The fear of overcrowding could scarcely be aggravated beyond the actual experience of those in charge. Or at least there could be a compromise with the humbler class of visitors, by giving them henceforth so many days in each week, as has been the practice in all the great international exhibitions. Were this done it would then be optional to raise the price for the remaining days to a figure which would correspond with the dignity of those who might still prefer to be considered exclusive or select patrons of the exhibition.

THE BROADWAY TUNNEL RAILROAD.—The State Senate at Albany, yesterday, had the good sense not to agree to the report of the Committee on Railroads, which would have defeated this vitally necessary measure, and the report will come up in Committee of the Whole, where the merits of the project will be fully discussed. Senators, it seems, expressed the opinion that "the project was purely chimerical," in which opinion they differ greatly from the capitalists and property-holders of New-York. We should not wonder if they were the same fogies who laughed at FULTON when he built his steamboats.

THE METROPOLITAN FAIR.

Opening of the Second Week—The Roman and other Departments—Receipts Yesterday $42,917.

SEVENTH DAY.

Yesterday, the seventh day of the Fair, was the most unpleasant since its opening, the crowd, in consequence, was not at first as great as on previous days; about noon, however, they commenced to flock in, and from that time to the close of the fair the attendance was fully as good as usual.

THE ROMAN DEPARTMENT.

The opening of the Roman Department, which has been anxiously waited for by so many persons, took place yesterday, and the splendid collection of ancient and valuable articles which were then displayed, fully satisfied all visitors, that though late, they were well worth waiting for. It is probably the most valuable and extensive collection of curiosities from the Holy Land ever exhibited in this country. A copy by Miss SPERERA, of HOUDON's head of WASHINGTON, valued at $500. A bust of Secretary SEWARD, valued at $600, by IVES, the celebrated Roman sculptor. A book containing engravings of all the works of CANOVA, presented by CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN, with the understanding that it shall not be purchased for less than $600, and that it shall be presented to the Women's School of Design. A book presented by Mr. HOZENA, the American banker at Rome, valued at $500, containing engravings of the paintings of the celebrated Uffizi Gallery at Florence. A medallion by Miss FOLEY, the sculptress of the head of the Roman Girl, who is remarkable for her beauty, and as being the model of all Roman sculptors, known as the "Peschuccia," valued at $100. A bust of "Faun," valued at $250, presented by Mr. MONTAGUE HANDLEY. Bust of "Madonna," valued at $100, presented by Mrs. HOWE, and Mr. and Mrs. TOWNSEND. Five volumes of poems, by the Marquise DE TRAVERSE, wife of the celebrated French Admiral, Count D'ESTAING, well known for the valuable assistance rendered by him to this country in the Revolutionary war. An elegant pin of the cross of Savoy, valued at $200, presented by CASTELLANI, the celebrated Roman jeweler. Painting of "Sibyl" on ivory, presented by Mr. and Mrs. D. COLGATE MURRAY. A collection of old Roman coins, valued at $70, presented by Rev. Dr. BUTLER, the Pastor of the American Episcopal Church at Rome. A large and beautifully ornamented candle, which was blessed on the high altar of St. Peter's Cathedral at Rome, numerous rosaries which have been blessed by the Pope. A large collection of paintings and other valuable articles, presented by Mrs. BAUMS, widow of Rev. Marcellus Baums, of this City. A collection of relics, marbles and ancient Etruscan pottery, dug up from old ruins, presented by Mrs. Dr. GOULD, and a large collection of paintings by celebrated artists, are among the most attractive articles here exhibited. In addition to these, there are a great number of smaller relics, the sale of which will commence to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. A subscription has been opened for Miss CUSHMAN's book, which it is hoped will be well patronized.

HATS, CAPS AND FURS.

The Department of Hats, Caps and Furs is very extensive and very complete. Among these goods are particularly noticeable a very beautiful Indian hammock, ornamented with feathers of birds of numerous different species; a set of Russian sable, valued at $1,000, presented by C. G. GUERNEY & Sons; and a pup lion, but a few hours old and only eight inches high—the smallest specimen of the breed ever shown to the public. The stock of hats and caps, all of which are for sale, is very beautiful. Hats to fit all ages, children, lads and gentlemen, babies, lasses and misses, may here be found, and all are for sale at very reasonable prices. Another good feature is that gentlemen who cannot find their exact fit may purchase orders on all the leading hatters of New-York, and these orders will be promptly filled.

METHODIST CHURCH.

This is a very beautiful stand, receives much notice and is very well patronized. It is fitted up very tastefully and attended by a bevy of the prettiest young ladies imaginable. A beautiful centre table, the top of which is made of worsted work, representing the Angel of Night, numerous dolls, smoking caps, pictures, afghans and all sorts of articles of ladies' manufacture are here displayed. The receipts of this stand have been very satisfactory, and at the end of the fair the stand of the Methodist Church will doubtless give an excellent account of its work. All who have not visited it should do so, it will repay the visit.

WAX FLOWERS AND FRUITS, SHELL WORK, ETC.

"And further on a group of lovely girls

who with the presiding lady, Mrs. SAMUEL G. COURTNEY, are adding by their grace, wit and beauty to the attractions of their superbly filled table. Taking specially devoted to the sale of wax flowers and fruits, shell work and miscellaneous articles and oddities. It is decidedly the most elegant in the fair, its resemblances of the fragrant and the luscious rivaling the real of the floral temple and the tropics. One basket of fruit is of rare beauty. It is very large, comprising almost every variety, and the counterfeits are so true to nature that the mouth waxes watery in the eyes' contemplation. Exquisite combinations of taste and skill are here in flowers of every variety, and live in baskets, vases and bouquets. The shell work is also very beautiful. Among the curiosities is an exact resemblance of the hair of WASHINGTON, BOOTH, DICKINSON, DIX, ARNAUDON, BANCROFT, SANFORD and FREMONT. An old gentleman of eighty-four has carved an eagle from a solid piece of wood, gilded and presented it. Ogdensburgh and Binghamton have contributed liberally to this table; and their goods were among the first sold. A quantity of elegant worsted-work was the gift of Mrs. J. T. MYERS, of Binghamton, and a collection of Autumn leaves from the garden of Hon. D. S. DICKINSON, ingeniously worked into beautiful designs, was the gift of Mrs. M. C. DICKINSON. Further reference to the "beauties" of this table, to the adornment and success of which Mrs. COURTNEY has lent her taste and energy, space prevents, save in the mention that Misses LOUISE and BELLE TRAUTSON, Miss BIRDSALL, Miss ELLA BROWN, Miss MILLER and Miss DARCOTT are her accomplished assistants. No one can tarry here but what the inclination, or rather fascination, to buy something, or attempt to dispose of himself becomes irresistible.

THE SWORDS.

This excitement is as great as ever. In less than five minutes from the time the doors were opened, a lady registered for herself and sons five votes for McCLELLAN. During the day eleven hundred and seven votes were cast, making the total number of votes till the closing of the fair last evening five thousand three hundred and thirty-two. Of these Gen. McCLELLAN has received.....2,005
Gen. GRANT has received.....2,295
Scattering.....35
thus giving Gen. McCLELLAN a majority of six hundred and twenty-seven.

RECEIPTS.

The receipts for the day up to 3 o'clock were $42,917 47, not quite so large as on previous days; but this may be easily accounted for by the inclemency of the weather, and the consequent comparative small attendance. The receipts are made up as follows:

Sales to 3 o'clock P. M.	$12,468 13
Received for admissions	9,878 54
Received for donations	20,570 80
Total	$42,917 47

THE ATTENDANCE.

The number of persons who visited the fair was about thirteen thousand. Mr. THEODORE MOSS, who arranged the system for the sale and taking of tickets which has given such general satisfaction, yesterday introduced a new idea, which will probably prevent all transferring of season tickets. It is a large book for signatures, and parties visiting the fair, holding season tickets, are required to sign their names in this book; if the signature agrees with the name on the ticket sold well; if not, title, of course, supposed that the ticket is held by one to whom it does not belong. This is an excellent movement and gives general satisfaction to all honest holders of season tickets.

THE UNION SQUARE FAIR BUILDING—CONCERTS—RAINY DAY AMUSEMENTS—KNICKERBOCKER KITCHEN.

The unpleasant weather had a damaging effect on the business of this portion of the fair yesterday morning, and the Children's Department especially suffered. With all the terrors of diptheria, croup and coughs threatening in the damp and dismal atmosphere, mothers kept their little ones at home snug by the firside; so the children's room was almost deserted, except by those "of larger growth," well wrapped up in overshoes and cloaks, who defied Jupiter Pluvius with a blue cotton umbrella, and were rewarded for their temerity by having the run of the rooms free from the inconvenience of a crowd. It is well worth while to choose a rainy day for a careful examination of the curiosities and novelties of the fair, which the rush of visitors in pleasant weather compel the sight-seer to pass by with a cursory glance and it seemed that toward evening a great many people had come to consider a rainy day the best of all days to see the fair. So they all went and the result was that at 6 o'clock last night the rooms were filled with a more numerous concourse than upon any evening since the opening.

THE CONCERT ROOM.

Another entertainment was given in the Concert Hall last night, by the children of the Tenth Ward Public Schools. The songs and choruses sung by these children were given in the best manner. Three hundred children, with fresh young voices well trained, singing in concert some grand chorus from a favorite opera, offer a musical treat seldom heard in any city on this continent.

In conjunction with the concert an exhibition drill was given by a company of young soldiers, the oldest of whom could not have been over twelve, commanded officers no older than themselves. These young braves went through all the exercises and manœuvres that the limited dimensions of the stage permitted, with the precision of a company of regulars on dress parade. In the manual of arms they were particularly excellent, and their Captain gave the word of command in a manner that would do credit to a West Point[illegible]. The room was so crowded during the performance that not even standing room could be had inside the door.

THE KNICKERBOCKER KITCHEN.

Nothing could possible be pleasanter than the Knickerbocker kitchen on a rainy evening. Nobody can be cross here; no matter what his state of mind may be before entering; no matter who treads on his corns, or nudges him with a particularly sharp elbow after he gets in; once there the lively, jolly, comfortable appearance of everything in it, and everybody connected with it, spreads contentment over the child and a smile over the face, which [illegible] Dutch laugh. It [illegible] could possibly be in more perfect keeping than all the appointments of the room. Nothing has been forgotten that would tend to render the visitor, on the delusion that he has gone back to 1664, and meet address the lady managers in good Holland Dutch, or fail to make himself understood.

An error has occurred in some of the accounts given of the kitchen in regard to the lady who presides over it. The high priestess of this ancient temple of cleanliness and comfort is Mrs. Judge Rosevelt, a lady of veritable Dutch descent, and a well-known leader in the best circles of New-York society. The ladies of this committee, Mrs. CLAYTON, Mrs. SCHERMERHORN, Mrs. BENSON and others, are all of pure Dutch blood, and representatives of the best families of this City. It is in fact a City institution, and New-Yorkers should remember it.

The receipts here are over $1,500 per day.

THE INTERNATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Many fresh attractions have been added to this department lately. New goods have come from Europe and other countries for exhibition and sale. Visitors should remember that plants in pots, cuttings, seeds, &c., are sold here, and no more pleasing memento of the fair can be had than a flower or a plant purchased here.

At the Hartford booth a subscription book has been opened for the purchase of the piano made from the Charter Oak. The people of Connecticut are called upon to come forward and subscribe enough to buy this piano for presentation to Gov. BUCKINGHAM, the patriotic and loyal chief magistrate of that State. The piano can be seen in the music-room.

The Custom-House Forgeries—Cross-Examination of John J. Cisco.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE.

Before Commissioner Webb.

The examination of John W. Hunter was continued this morning.

John J. Cisco, Assistant United States Treasurer, recalled: In relation to the "D" in "Dec." in these forged checks, which is said to be different, I can show you the same "D" in his check book on the margin; there are many like it in both books; noting that this forged check was made payable to Page & Wheeler, I looked in the Directory for such a firm, but could not find any such firm; there were checks given to a Mr. Page and also to a Mr. Wheeler, before this; these two names put together made the Page & Wheeler; I was never notified by Mr. Hunter of the loss of these checks from the book, or of the loss of the book; it is usual to notify me if checks are lost.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Q.—Would you expect to receive any notice of the absence of checks if Mr. Hunter and Mr. Ogden did not know it.

A.—Certainly not; the same "D" appears in the word "draw book" in the check books; it is in the same word all the way through. I first went into business for myself in 1828; I dissolved partnership in 1846 and accepted the position of Assistant Treasurer in 1853.

During that interval of about ten years I was not in business; prior to 1846, I was in the wholesale importing cloth business; I was appointed by President Pierce; Mr. Redfield was Collector; Mr. Schell succeeded Mr. Redfield, and he was succeeded by Mr. Barney; during Schell's Collectorship he drew his own checks; Mr. Hunter commenced drawing checks on 17th April, 1861; Mr. Barney sent me notice that Mr. Hunter was authorized to draw those checks; his signature was accepted to the notice; Hunter commenced drawing checks in October, 1861; since then he has drawn frequently; there are a great many more checks drawn now than when Schell was Collector; the business of my office has increased ten times or more since the war; the average balances of disbursing officers are now $27,000,000; I have never taken a bond from a clerk in my establishment; a clerk must have my entire confidence, or I will not have him there at all; bonds have proved of little value; I take all the risk myself; I have devoted my entire time to my office for ten years and a half; I have occasionally been sick; the toil and responsibility has been excessive; the salary is $6,000 per year; the other compensation is the honor of holding and discharging a responsible office faithfully and well; it is a matter of duty and patriotism; I was induced to accept it under this Administration from many appeals made to me to do so; I have never found any mistakes in my office; I have taken great pride in the perfect administration of my office; one book-keeper has been removed within the last year, because he disobeyed my instructions; his successor's name was Willbond; he had been employed by Fanshaw & Hillhan; it was my habit to look over the checks; I special instructions that two unclaimed no forgeries; my attention was called to them on the 25th of February last; Mr. Ogden, Mr. Barney and Hunter were present; Mr. Hunter said they were forgeries; on the first interview I made up my mind that they were genuine; I have not talked much about these checks; I have spoken to Moses Taylor and Mr. Coe about it.

Q.—Have you said to any lady that it was impossible for a mistake to occur in your office? A.—I do not recollect saying so to any lady; I wrote a letter to Mr. Coe about this matter; have known Hunter for about ten years; never knew a check of his that proved to be false before.

Q.—What has been Hunter's character since you knew him?

Question objected to.

Mr. Gerard said it was simply a question of handwriting. The defence might bring all the world here with speaking trumpets to swear that Hunter was an angel, but it would all turn finally upon the question of his signature.

It was agreed that the prosecution should concede that Mr. Hunter had always borne a good character.

I have never seen Hunter write; I am equally confident that Hunter wrote the signature to those checks to-day, as before; if Hunter should swear that he never wrote his signature to these checks it would not affect my judgment; I know Moses Taylor; it would not affect my judgment if he swore that it was not Hunter's signature; I do not always write my own signature alike.

Q.—If a man should come here and swear that he wrote the whole of these checks, would you believe him?

A.—No, I would not; because a man who would do it would swear to anything. I discover peculiarities in these checks that are called forged; there is an attempt to disguise in the letters "Dec." Adding "ch" was another variation. My opinion is that it might have been written with a different pen and little ink by equally usual. No man can imitate Hunter's signature so as to deceive me; it is an impossibility. I should lose nothing if these checks are pronounced to be forgeries.

Charles F. Gulick, Second Teller in the Sub-Treasury, testified that he had heard the testimony of Mr. Ferris, the First Teller, and corroborated it. Am familiar with Hunter's signature; have seen his checks many times; consider myself a good judge of handwriting; am positive that the checks claimed to be forged are in Hunter's handwriting.

Cross-examined—I receive one thousand eight hundred dollars per year; was appointed by Mr. Cisco; have heard Mr. Cisco express himself in regard to these checks.

Jacob Rossell, Cashier in the Sub-Treasury, testified that he was an expert in handwriting. I have no doubt that the checks were signed by Hunter; I would have paid them, but they been presented to me; Hunter's hand is a running hand, hard to counterfeit.

Cross-examined—Never recollect seeing Hunter write; know his handwriting from seeing his checks so often; heard that Hunter had sworn that he never wrote these checks.

Adjourned until 2 o'clock to-day.

Great Freshet in Virginia—Damage to the Orange and Alexandria Railroad—Bridges Washed Away: Track Injured, &c.

WASHINGTON, Monday, April 11.

The heaviest freshet known for ten years occurred on the line of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad on Saturday night.

The railroad is badly damaged at Cameron Run, four miles from Alexandria, and the water is entirely over the track, and the bridge at that point.

Heavy washes have occurred and deep cuts have been made between Springfield and Burk's Station.

Bull Run Bridge was washed away entirely about noon yesterday.

Broad Run and Kettle Run bridges are badly damaged.

Several logs were taken out of the Cedar Run trestle, but that has since been put in order.

The Bull Run bridge will be ready for the passage of trains at 4 o'clock this afternoon, if further difficulties do not occur.

The whole track will be ready for travel over it, by 7 o'clock to-night.

In consequence of these disasters, no trains were run to the Army of the Potomac, yesterday, or to-day, but they will commence running again to-morrow.

Heavy firing is reported yesterday to have been heard in the direction of Bristow Station.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS.—THE BRANDRETH Pills reduce, lessen and expel the principle of disease; and in proportion as they effect this great object, they increase the principle of life. Dr. Lull says, "That Brandreth's Pills are a vegetable compound; they invigorate, purify and cleanse the blood; they correct and regulate all the secretions; and, by purgation, discharge the whole mass of morbid matter from the body without reducing the strength. If one hundred of the most enlightened physicians were to unite their individual skill, it could scarcely do as much to cure as a dose or repeated doses of Brandreth's Pills.

U. S. 10-40 BONDS.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1864, which provides that in lieu of so much of the loan authorized by the Act of March 3, 1863, to which this is supplementary, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to borrow from time to time, on the credit of the United States, not exceeding TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS, during the current fiscal year, and to prepare and issue therefor Coupon and Registered Bonds of the United States; and all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any State or municipal authority.

Subscriptions to these bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period nor less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually, and on all other bonds semi-annually.

The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year. The semi-annual Coupons are payable at those dates, and the annual Coupons on the 50 and 100 dollar Bonds are payable on the first of March.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds, as they may prefer.

Registered Bonds will be issued of the denominations of fifty dollars ($50), one hundred dollars ($100), five hundred dollars ($500), one thousand dollars ($1,000), five thousand dollars ($5,000), and ten thousand dollars ($10,000), and Coupon Bonds of the denominations of fifty dollars ($50), one hundred dollars ($100), five hundred dollars ($500), and one thousand dollars ($1,000).

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their bonds draw interest from March 1, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium), or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit.

As these Bonds are exempt from municipal or State taxation, their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay over eight per cent. interest in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer as great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of United States Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

The fact that all duties on imports are payable in specie, furnishes a fund for like payment of interest on all Government Bonds, largely in excess of the wants of the treasury for this purpose.

Upon the receipt of subscriptions a certificate of deposit therefor, in duplicate, will be issued, the original of which will be forwarded by the subscriber to the Secretary of the Treasury, at Washington, with a letter stating the kind (registered or coupon) and the denominations of bonds required.

Upon the receipt of the original certificates at the Treasury Department, the Bonds subscribed for will be transmitted to the subscribers respectively.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, and the Assistant Treasurers at New-York, Boston, and Philadelphia, and by the and by all the National Banks which are depositaries of public money. All respectable banks and bankers throughout the country will furnish further information on application, and afford every facility to subscribers.

GRAY'S PATENT MOLDED COLLARS have now been before the public for nearly a year. They are universally pronounced the neatest and best fitting collars extant.

The upper edge presents a perfect curve, free from the angles noticed in all other collars.

The curved causes no puckers on the inside of the turn-down collar; they are as smooth inside as outside, and therefore perfectly free and easy to the neck.

The Garette Collar has a smooth and evenly finished edge on both sides.

These collars are not simply flat pieces of paper cut in the form of a collar, but are molded and shaped to fit the neck.

They are made in "Novelty" (or turn-down) style, in every half inch size from 13 to 17 inches, and in "Sample" or Garette) from 13 to 17 inches, and packed in "solid sizes" in neat blue cartoons, containing 100 each; also, in smaller case of 10 each—the latter a very handy package for travelers, army and navy officers.

Every collar is stamped "GRAY'S PATENT MOLDED COLLARS." The trade supplied by J. S. LOWREY & CO., No. 37 Warren-st., New-York.

MORSE & CO.,
No. 24 William-st., New-York.

APRIL 5, 1864.

NEW-YORK, April 4, 1864.

I visited this Mine in the month of December, 1863, accompanied by Guido Kustel, the most distinguished Metallurgist and Mining Engineer on the Pacific coast, for many years the Manager of the Ophir Works, and author of a valuable treatise on the "Processes of Silver and Gold Extraction," recently published in California. My opinion of the value and quality of this Mine is based on information derived from this gentleman, and on my own observations at the Mine.

The Mine is situated in Arizona, about three miles north of the northern boundary line of Sonora, and five miles distant from the celebrated Mowry Silver Mines; it is accessible at all seasons of the year, either by the way of Los Angeles, Libertad, or Guaymas. But little work has been done in developing the mine; enough, however, to discover the width and extent of the lode, and determine the quality and value of the ores.

Where the shaft is sunk the vein is from four to six feet wide between blue-slate walls, running north and east, and exhibits silver, or sulphurets of lead; carbonates of lead, zinc-blend and copper-pyrites; the richest is the sulphurets of lead, assaying one hundred and fifty-five dollars per ton; the vein has been prospected about half a mile. Mr. Kustel, in a letter addressed to the San Francisco owners, says: "The San Antonio lode appears, from the character of its gangue, to be easy to reduce by fire, and will pay on an average, according to the proportions of the different metals, from seventy to ninety dollars per ton."

I believe there is an abundant supply of this ore, and that by an expenditure of a comparatively small sum of money, the mine can be put in a condition to produce 40 tons per day; if this ore averages only $60 per ton, the gross product of the mine would exceed $2,400 per day; the entire cost of mining and reducing a ton of this ore will not exceed twenty dollars.

On the premises, about 300 yards from San Antonio lode, is a N. E. direction, there is a very rich copper lode, six feet wide; the ores which we obtained from this lode, considered a fair average, assayed 30 ⅌ cent. of copper and $76 in silver. Miners can be obtained in any number in the immediate vicinity, at about $16 ⅌ month.

The reduction works of the mine are three miles distant from the mine, consisting of a small engine and two furnaces. There is an abundance of wood and water for all purposes on the property.

I consider the San Antonio a very valuable Silver Mine. If worked with skill and energy, it will produce most satisfactory results.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 50 Liispenard-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In his practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but a short time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in from 48 hours to 3 days. Also all those who have been from business, Secondary Syphilis—the last vestiges eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Sufferers of Stricture, Hill's or Jones' special treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 50 Liispenard-st. Call, send or write.

$1,000 PREVENTED AND NO CHARGE UNLESS CURED.—Dr. Hunter's Red Drop cures venereal diseases, whether regular, exotical and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the fatiguing and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury; but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to a sore unless this remedy is used. It is without a rival by any remedy who other will accomplish. Its value in this respect has become so well known that scientific men, in every department of medical knowledge, begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, physicians and others, in regard to a case, painful patient one has exhausted the whole chain of the Materia, and still the disease will appear. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the sole office, No. 5 Division-st., New-York City, since 1823. Black is a private medical advisor. A ten cent bill will secure the Monitor of Health by return mail.

MONDAY, April 11—P. M.

The Weekly Averages of the old Banks of the City of New-York on Saturday, April 9, 1864, present in the aggregate the following changes from the previous exhibit of April 2:

Increase in Loans	$49,011
Increase in Specie	1,108,023
Increase in Circulation	6,512
Decrease in Undrawn Deposits	638,377

Including the Clearing-house operations of the week, which show the inter-exchanges between the Banks, and including also the Sub-Treasury balance at the close of the week, the following is the general comparison with the previous exhibit, and also with the movement this time last season:

	April 11, 1864.	April 9, 1864.	April 2, 1864.
Capital	$60,128,509	$60,722,509	$60,722,509
Loans	170,945,283	204,032,192	203,002,181
Specie	23,408,145	20,024,297	19,627,645
Circulation	6,176,661	5,894,511	5,786,996
Gross Deposits	203,972,744	209,328,339	209,080,087
Exchanges	44,078,813	109,795,516	112,720,790
Undrawn	180,804,781	176,018,620	171,181,297
In Sub-Treasury	12,172,697	27,499,224	25,460,675

The Bank return is steadier than usual, of late, on the lines of Loans and Deposits. The success of the Money Market last week prepared the public to hope that no further inflation of Loans would be made in support of the wild speculation now going on at the Stock Exchange. The Specie average is up nearly a million and a half from the April interest on the Public Debt paid from the Treasury Office about the 1st inst. The whole stock of Specie in Bank and in the New-York office of the Treasury is larger than at any time since 1861. It stands as follows:

In Bank	$20,394,267
Treasury Office	26,796,181
Total	$47,190,448

The sales of Gold to the Importers, from the Treasury Office, to-day, amount to $502,916. The price remains at 165 ⅌ cent. At the Stock Exchange the price at the Morning Board was 170⅝; at the Afternoon Board 171¼ ⅌ cent. There was an active inquiry for Exchange for the Boston steamers, which stiffened the speculation in Gold, which, however, still keeps ahead of the relative rates of Exchange. Bills on London are 187@187½ ⅌ cent.

The Subscriptions to the New Loan, to-day, thus far reported, are:

At Treasury Office	$128,400
First National Bank	529,500
Together	$658,050

There was no new feature in the Money Market. The price is 7 ⅌ cent. to Stock Exchange borrowers, as the rule.

The New-York Exchange was less animated to-day than through the past week, and the general volume of business not so large. The market, however, resumed considerable firmness in the afternoon on the Railways, at something near Saturday's sales, on most descriptions, and higher on Galena and Harlem. The latter was also very excited and upward through the early part of the day. Government Stocks advanced to 130 ⅌ cent. for the 6s of 1867, and left off 112½ ⅌ cent. for the 5-20 Loan. The Miscellaneous shares were higher on Delaware and Hudson, but otherwise tame, and on the new Mining schemes generally lower, with moderate sales.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made in comparison with Saturday afternoon. The New-York Roads, with the exception of Harlem, were neglected by speculation, while new combinations were apparent in Chicago and Rock Island and in Galena and Chicago. The general market left off irregular:

The Commercial Advertiser if disposed to deal fairly by the Government, will correct the oft-repeated assertion that the words "in coin" are not in the official copy of the Act, March 3, creating the New Loan. It will also dismiss the repeated intimation, wholly without authority or probability, that the interest upon this Loan will have to be raised to 6 ⅌ cent. We subjoin an official copy of the Loan Act, under which the Government has determined to issue $200,000,000 bearing no higher rate of interest than five per cent. in Gold:

THE ACT OF CONGRESS AUTHORIZING THE TEN-FORTY LOAN.

AN ACT supplementary to an act entitled "An Act to provide ways and means for the support of the Government," approved March 3, 1863.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress Assembled, That in lieu of so much of the loan authorized by the act of March 3, 1863, to which this is supplementary, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to borrow, from time to time, on the credit of the United States, not exceeding two hundred millions of dollars, during the current fiscal year, and to prepare and issue therefor coupon or registered bonds of the United States, bearing date March 1, 1864, or any subsequent period, redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after any period not less than five years, and payable at any period not more than forty years from date in coin, and of such denominations as may be found expedient, not less than fifty dollars, bearing interest not exceeding six per centum a year, payable on bonds not over one hundred dollars, annually, and on all other bonds semi-annually, in coin; and he may dispose of such bonds at any time, on such terms as he may deem most advisable, for lawful money of the United States, or, at his discretion, for Treasury notes, certificates of indebtedness, or certificates of deposit, issued under any act of Congress; and all bonds issued under this act shall be exempt from taxation by or under State or municipal authority. And the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay the necessary expenses of the preparation, issue and disposal of such bonds out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, but the amount so paid shall not exceed one-half of one per centum of the amount of bonds so issued and disposed of.

Approved, March 3, 1864.

In a card to the public this morning, Mr. GEORGE OPDYKE asks a suspension of public opinion on the Fourth National Bank difficulty until the Stockholders' meeting on Thursday next. So far as our own reference of Saturday to this matter, to which Mr. OPDYKE alludes, is concerned, we certainly have no objection to this delay. We desire to repeat, however, the belief that all the Stockholders, of both parties, or of no party other than the real well-wishers of the public usefulness of this Bank of large capital, in the success of which the Government is known to have taken (and still feels) much interest, ought to attend in person, in place of by proxy, where the object of substitution is, to say the least, of equivocal good.

The Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Company have made a quarterly dividend of 2½ ⅌ cent., payable 15th May. The March traffic of the road was:

In March, 1864	$602,603
In March, 1863	461,964
Increase	$140,639

The line is to be completed in its single track, and is to be double tracked out of the proceeds of new stock, of which $3,500,000 is appropriated for the service of 1864. The bondholders agree to this arrangement, on condition that their 50-year 7 ⅌ cents be irredeemable, except through a Sinking Fund of 1 ⅌ cent. a year, and that they vote in all elections, dollar for dollar, with the shareholders. The original compact was that the line should be completed out of the net earnings of the Road, and that the Bonds might be paid off or reduced to 6 ⅌ cents at any time after 1867, and to be voted on one dollar for every two of stock. The new stock is put in trust to be sold at the best market.

JAMES CURPHEY,
Cashier First National Bank,
NEW-YORK, March 28, 1864. New-York.

To the Stockholders of the Fourth National Bank of the City of New-York.

Six of the Directors of this Bank having published an ex parte statement of the difficulties existing in its management, and having made an appeal to you to sustain them at your meeting on Thursday next, the 14th inst., it becomes my duty to correct some of their misrepresentations, and to submit to you a brief statement of the facts in the case.

All their essential allegations in reference to me and to my action, as President of the bank, are without foundation in fact. It is not true, as they insinuate, that the meeting of the stockholders is called for the purpose of fixing me in my position as President, free from any control of the Board of Directors. It is not true that I have labored under the impression that I have a controlling voice over the Directors; that the Cashier must be such a person as I selected, whether the board deemed him suitable or not; that in the selection of other employes of the bank, my voice must control; and that the bank must be under the one-man power, and that power myself. The groundlessness of these charges, and folly of alleging such causes for the want of harmony in the management of the bank, will be transparent to any one who reflects for an instant that the appointing power was wholly with the Board of Directors, in which I could give but a single vote, and the six Directors could at any moment have elected such a Cashier and such other officers as they saw fit, while the President could do nothing but submit. Nor is it true that I have desired to retain my position as President. On the contrary, I would not have retained such position for a moment, after the unfriendly combination against me in the board manifested itself, had it not been for my sense of duty to the stockholders.

The facts in the case are briefly these: The Presidency of the bank was not of my seeking, nor did I personally desire it. The Commissioners selected to open books of subscriptions to the stock of the bank, of whom I was one, after keeping such books open for some weeks, had received an aggregate subscription but little exceeding one million of dollars. They found that capitalists were unwilling to subscribe until they knew who was to be the President of the bank. They thereupon, after consultation, determined to ask A. A. Low, Esq., to accept that position, several persons, including myself, offering to double their subscriptions should he accept. They made the tender, but Mr. Low declined. After further consultation, my associates next asked me to accept the position. I frankly told them that I did not want it; that if I accepted it at all it would be at the sacrifice of my personal wishes, to a desire to aid, as far as I could, the proposed system of national banks. They urged me to accept, promising that I should be aided in the performance of my duties by the appointment of an experienced and capable banker as Vice-President. After some days' reflection on the subject, I consented to serve. My name was thereupon publicly announced as the intended President of the bank, after which the balance of the capital of the bank, being about three-fourths of the whole, was subscribed.

The bank was then organized, the Directors chosen according to a ticket framed by the Commissioners, but not made public nor even completed until shortly before the election. By a vote of the Directors, I took the position for which I had been virtually selected by the Commissioners and the shareholders.

At some of the earliest meetings of the board it became evident to me that I had been made the victim of a combination; that my name had been used to aid in securing subscriptions to the stock, but that I was not the person whom the majority of the board desired or intended as their permanent President. Under this conviction I should at once and most gladly have resigned my position, if I could have done so without violating my obligations to those who had subscribed to the stock, after I had permitted my name to be announced as the intended President. Under this sense of honor and duty I retained my position, attending faithfully to my duties and treating every member of the board with the utmost courtesy and consideration. It is not true as stated by the six Directors, that I assumed any prerogatives not properly belonging to my office. On the contrary, I consulted the board on all questions appertaining to the management of the bank, and invariably acquiesced in and carried out their decisions. I went further; and for the sake of harmony and in the hope of securing it, I permitted them in some cases to exercise functions properly belonging to the executive officers of the bank. But it was all of no avail. The determination of the majority to make the position too unpleasant for me to retain, became more and more manifest. They refused to appoint an active Vice-President, though a most acceptable one was, it was believed, within our reach. They neglected to appoint a Cashier, though the name of a most unexceptionable one was proposed and urged by me. They put in the by-laws a provision requiring the President to give bonds, though they admitted that there was nothing in the law requiring it, nor anything in custom to justify it. While their conduct was becoming more and more offensive, and as it seemed to me in reckless disregard of the interests of the bank, I took occasion to consult with some of the larger stockholders to ascertain if they would justify me in resigning my position, which had now become exceedingly disagreeable to me. With one accord they answered in the negative, saying that they would denounce me if I voluntarily abandoned my post.

Finally the majority of the board became more outspoken, and informally expressed the wish that I should resign. I told them cordially that such had long been my desire, but that my sense of duty to the stockholders forbade it. I reminded them that I was in no degree responsible for the existing discord, that I had performed my duties with such fidelity to the interests of the bank, that they had never criticised a single one of my official acts, and that I defied them to point to a word uttered by me discourteous to any member of the board. I added that it appeared to me that the only sure method of restoring harmony and subserving the interests of the bank, would be to call a meeting of the shareholders, tender to them our resignations and let them elect a new board. To this they objected. On the following day, Mr. TAYLOR offered a resolution to this effect, which was seconded by me, but which was voted down by the majority of the board. At the same time they refused to consider the question of appointing a Cashier, or an Assistant Cashier, although we were still without the first named officer, and the latter had resigned his office to take effect a few days thereafter.

Nothing remained to me but to submit the case to some of the large shareholders, and ask their advice. They decided with great unanimity to call a general meeting of the shareholders to consider and determine what action in the premises would best subserve their own and the public interests. At that meeting it is my purpose to present a full statement of the facts, and to give my reasons for apprehending that the interests of the shareholders will not be safe if the bank is permitted to be controlled by the present majority of the board; and further to state the only theory which to my mind explains the combination formed against me from the moment I became President of the bank. After doing this I shall, with a feeling of great relief, tender to the stockholders my resignation of a trust, which, as I have said, I never sought nor desired, and which I received rather from them than from the Board of Directors.

Meanwhile I append hereto the certificate of the late Assistant Cashier, Mr. ROLSTON, and Messrs. TAYLOR & LATHROP, two of the Directors, to prove that my conduct has not been of the aggressive character charged by the majority of the board; but uniformly courteous and forbearing, even under circumstances of great provocation.

In conclusion, however, I cannot withhold the expression of my surprise that Mr. WARREN WEAVER should have signed the published card of the Directors, as he was no party to the controversy, and knows nothing of its merits, having within a few days only claimed to be a member of the board.

GEORGE OPDYKE.

NEW-YORK, April 11, 1864.

The undersigned take great pleasure in stating that Mr. OPDYKE, the President of the Fourth National Bank of this City, has always evinced, in his deportment toward the Directors of the bank, uniform kindness and courtesy; that he has exercised no authority not properly belonging to his office; that he has attended faithfully to his official duties, and that he has, in our opinion always been forbearing, and refrained from every sort of aggression.

ROBT. L. TAYLOR, Director.
R. D. LATHROP, Director.
R. G. ROLSTON,
APRIL 11, 1864. late Assistant Cashier.
